SAYS U. S. HAS RIGHT IDEA IN NAVY BUILDING

Big Surface Fleet Is Wise Course Says Frenchman.

"SUB" BACK NUMBER Can Be Successfully Eliminated By Aircraft and Guns.

Paris, Feb. 12.—The American naval policy of constructing a big surface fleet instead of relying upon submarines and airplanes was defended as wise and proper today by Pierre Dupuy, president of the naval committee of the French chamber of deputies, in an interview with the International News Service.

"The United States is right in constructing a big surface fleet and not relying on submarines and airplanes which are valuable only as auxiliaries," said Dupuy. "Nothing in the history of the recent war and nothing indicated by science for the future proves that battleships and cruisers are obsolete. However four 15,000 ton ships are to be preferred to one 60,000 ton warship, on the principle that a nation should not put all its naval eggs in one basket."

"I cannot deny the importance of the role German submarines played early in the war, sinking a large number of isolated ships, and thus interfering with the supplies and transports. But the same conditions did not exist at the end of the war. At the end of the conflict the allies were rendering efficacious service against the German submarines. The frequent destruction of the under-water craft had the crews demoralized.

"What you ask, can the submarine in the future against merchantmen armed with rapid fire long range guns and defended by airplanes and warships?"

"I do not believe that submarine cruisers can change the situation. They are unwise to maneuver and expose themselves to enemy warships and airplanes. Furthermore the navigation of big submarines has not been perfected. This was proved by the recent loss of the British submarine K-5 with a loss of 56 lives."

"The submarine has advantages as a weapon of attack while escorting warships but when isolated is doomed to flight or destruction by hostile men of war and airplanes. Progress in science has made it easy to detect the presence of submarines."

"At the beginning of the war the allies made the mistake of navigating in dispersed order. Later when ships were reinforced by destroyers and airplanes they moved in groups along secret routes and the danger of being torpedoed was reduced to practically nothing. Look back for instance to the manner in which the United States transports brought the great American army across the Atlantic in safety. Those vessels came in groups."

"France contemplates for 1921 the construction of six battle-cruisers, twelve destroyers and twelve submarines. We believe that is sufficient for this year."

MAY TRACE ROBBERY TO STREET BEGGAR

Marion, O., Feb. 12.—It was learned today that John E. Waddell, president of the Marion Building, Savings and Loan Company, the office of which was entered by a lone unmasked bandit who escaped with $272,560 Wednesday, early that day had refused alms to a man whose description, the police say, tallies exactly with the man who held up the bank. Waddell not only refused the fellow alms but he gave him a lecture or going to work.

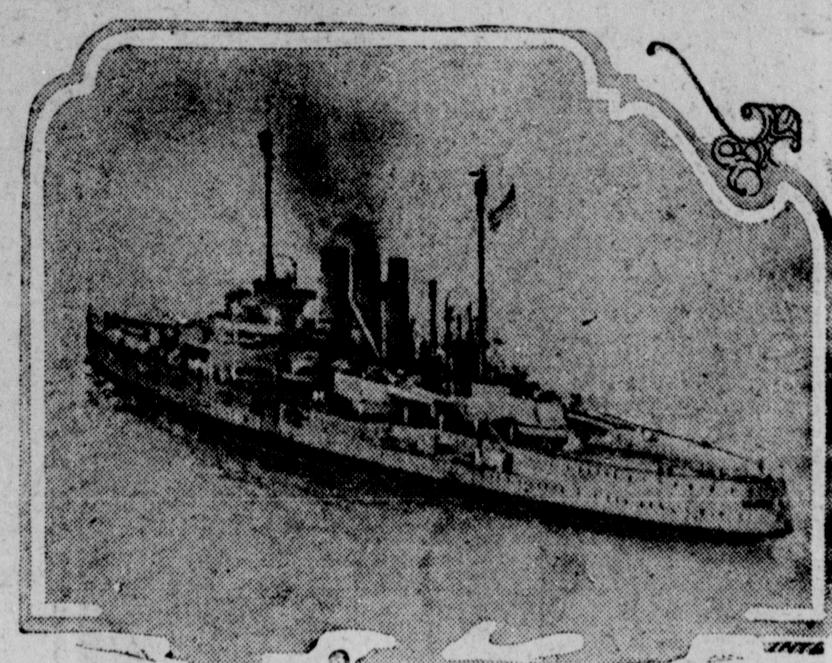

"Did the holdup man know that it was Waddell's institution he was robbing?"

DANCE IS STOPPED BY SCHOOL BOARD

Dayton, O., Feb. 12.—Students at Fairview high school arranged a big dance for last night and hired a jazz organization. The board of education called a meeting and went to the auditorium and stopped the dancing so the youths and maidens ate their popcorn balls to raggedy tunes.

GENERAL CHARLES G. DAWES TO CONFER WITH HARDING; SECRECY IS MAINTAINED

Possible Members Of Next Cabinet To Visit St. Augustine In Near Future—Policies May Be Outlined At Conferences.

St. Augustine, Fla., Feb. 12.—General Charles G. Dawes, of Chicago, who for weeks was regarded as the most probable candidate for secretary of the treasury was expected to confer with President elect Harding today.

While the president elect has care fully avoided any indication of whether General Dawes still is under consideration and has smilingly assured newspapermen that they cannot do more than guess whether he will offer a post to the Illinois banker or inform him he cannot appoint him. The general feeling prevails among men close to the president elect that General Dawes will be a member of the cabinet. The approaching visits to St. Augustine of possible members of the Harding cabinet is believed here to foreshadow the desire of the president elect that the men who will head his most important departments, prepare themselves in advance to carry out his policies. The pressing importance of the international situation it is believed will be thoroughly discussed with Charles Evans Hughes, strongly indicated as the next secretary of state. Mail and telegrams already have begun to arrive here in anticipation of the arrival of James Davis, forecast as secretary of labor. The gravity with which labor situation is regarded by the railroad executives is emphasized by the presence in the St. Augustine yards of half a dozen private cars housing men who direct the policies of important roads.

The arrival of other men counted on to take a large part in the councils of the coming administration was definitely forecast by Mr. Harding today.

LANDIS HAS RIGHT TO BE ARBITRATOR DECLARES PALMER

Attorney General Rules Judge May Hold Two Positions.

Washington, Feb. 12.—Federal Judge Landis of Chicago was within the law when he accepted the office of supreme baseball arbitrator while still serving on the bench, Attorney General Palmer declared in a letter to Representative Welty, who had questioned the judge's right to hold both positions.

Mr. Welty introduced a bill making it unlawful for any judge to receive compensation for exercising the duties of arbitrator, commissioner or officer of any corporation. He said that if he could not persuade the house rules committee to give the bill a privileged status he would call it up on the floor.

After examining the question raised by Mr. Welty, who insisted that Judge Landis could not properly accept $42,000 a year as baseball arbitrator, the attorney general said such acceptance was "not a crime, either misdemeanor or felony."

APPROPRIATION BILL HITS SNAG

Washington, Feb. 12.—The navy appropriation bill ran through hostile waters in the House but at the end was still afloat.

Shot at from all sides, it almost went down at times as members attempted to riddle certain provisions of $395,000,000. Measure one section, on the point of going out, was saved by Chairman Thomas S. Butler, of the Naval Affairs Committee, who went to the front and resisted it.

Opposition to the bill cropped out as a result of the general dissatisfaction with the method of framing appropriation legislation. Heretofore the Naval bill has been drafted by the Naval Committee, but under the so-called budget system that committee holds its hands while a subcommittee on appropriations does the work.

BARRACKS DESTROYED.

Dublin, Feb. 12.—The police barracks at Drumleague were partly destroyed by dynamite today during an attack by a large force of armed men. The attackers were finally driven off. The crown forces sustained no casualties.

THREAT TO KILL MADE ON PHONE AVERS WITNESS

Telephone Operators Say Sid Hatfield Made Statement.

150 SHOTS ARE FIRED Baldwin-Felts Detective 1st Witness in "Trigger" Trial Saturday.

Mingo County Courthouse, Williamson, W. Va., Feb. 12.—"We'll kill the before they get out of Matewan."

Two telephone operators testified today that Sid Hatfield, chief of police of Matewan and principal defendant in the "Trigger trial," made this threat over the telephone on the day before the gun battle. He referred, according to the witnesses, to the thirteen Baldwin-Felts detectives who were serving eviction papers on miners and their families around Matewan. Seven of the detectives were killed and nineteen men from Matewan are on trial for the murder of the leaders of the sleuths, Albert C. Felts, Elsie Chambers, 18 and May Chaffin, 17, were the witnesses.

Elsie is the daughter of Rees Chambers, sister of Ed. Chambers, and first cousin of Hal Chambers, all three

The two girls testified Sid Hatfield was talking from the store of C. C. Webb, deputy sheriff in Williamson. They declared Sid asked Webb how soon the latter could send warrants for the Felts men to Matewan. Webb replied that "number 16"—the noon train—was the earliest they could get there.

"All right, send them up," the two telephone girls quoted Hatfield as saying to Webb. Then he uttered the threat, they added.

Mingo County Courthouse, Williamson, W. Va., Feb. 12.—Between 100 and 150 shots were fired in the "Battle of Matewan," which lasted "only a few seconds," testified John McDowell, a Baldwin-Felts detective, first witness in the "trigger trial" today.

His story was in effect that told exclusively to the International News Service a few days ago by Tom Felts, head of the detective agency.

"NO SORE SPOTS" IN HOUSE OVER RUMOR DECLARES SPEAKER

Members Stand Ready To Take Advice Is Word Of Beetham.

Columbus, O., Feb. 12.—Although final word must come from the state legislature, members stand ready to listen to the advice of Governor Davis, to the people, or to Representatives of various organizations relative to proposed legislation, declared Speaker Beetham, of the house today.

"There are no sore spots in the house," said Speaker Beetham, referring to published statements that some legislators felt hurt, believing that the governor has been issuing premature statements and taking undue credit relative to legislative matters.

We shall be pleased to have the opinion of the tax committee of nine, appointed by Governor Davis, or the advice of any other committee," continued Speaker Beetham. "An indication of how the governor stands on various measures from time to time, also is valuable.

"Of course, the final word must come from the general assembly. That is the purpose for which was elected. It is the assembly that must take the responsibility."

RECEIVING DEPOTS MAY BE ESTABLISHED

Cleveland, O., Feb. 12.—Establishment of receiving depots by consumers of food products that can be used by inter city trucks and the parcel post delivery wagons until co-operative stores, or publicly owned and controlled markets can be established is favored by the All American Farmer-Labor Co-operative congress which ended a three day session here today.

Central labor unions should finance such depots temporarily, it was declared, until such time as trading is developed, when a small carrying charge should be levied on the products handled. Competent salesmen should be placed in charge of these depots, the congress asserts.

BATTLE OCCURS ON TRAIN HELD UP IN IRELAND

One British Soldier Killed In Sinn Fein Attack.

TRAIN FIRED UPON

Soldiers Objects Of Attack By Irish In Early Morning Fight.

Dublin, Feb. 12.—At least one British soldier was killed and a number of officers and privates were wounded in a desperate battle with Sinn Feiners on board a train early today. There were fourteen British officers and privates on the train which was bound from Dublin to Killarney. Two armed Sinn Feiners boarded the locomotive and ordered the engineer to go at full speed for twenty miles. After this burst of speed the engineer was ordered to stop the train at an isolated spot where the telegraph wires had been cut. Two hundred men then opened an attack against the coach in which the soldiers were riding. There was a terrific fusillade of shots. One officer was wounded and a sergeant was killed. Five of the privates were hit by flying bullets and the others surrounded.

The Sinn Feiners seized all the soldiers' weapons and ordered the engineer to proceed with the dead and wounded to Killarney. During the firing the civilian passengers flung themselves upon the floor to escape the bullets that were crashing through the windows.

Dublin Castle gave an official version of the attack, saying that it had occurred near Mill street. The following warning was issued by Dublin Castle.

"In view of this and similar incidents, if there is a repetition it will lead to the closing of any rail line in the martial law zone where such an attack may be made."

U. S. BLUEJACKETS ARE FIRED UPON AT RUSSIAN SEAPORT

Bolsheviks Blamed For Shooting Says Japanese Newspaper

Tokio, Feb. 12.—Five American bluejackets were fired at by persons unknown at Vladivostok at 11 o'clock Tuesday night, one of them being wounded, says the Asahi Shimbun's Vladivostok correspondent.

The Americans, reinforced by Russian policemen, arrested three Russian officers, formerly under the late General Kappel, once commander of the Western armies of the Omsk government, the correspondent adds.

The impression in Vladivostok, according to the correspondent, is that the attack was arranged by communists with the object of straining relations between Japan and the United States.

Washington, Feb. 12.—The suit of William Randolph Hearst to restrain Secretary of the Treasury David F. Houston from allowing further credits to foreign nations, will engage the attention of the general foreign relations committee to-day.

Hearst will appear before the committee in secret or executive session. He has promised to furnish the committee all "confidential" and other information possessed by the treasury department regarding the present status of the financial obligations of Great Britain and other foreign governments to this country.

HEARST SUIT WILL ENGAGE ATTENTION

Washington, Feb. 12.—The suit of William Randolph Hearst to restrain Secretary of the Treasury David F. Houston from allowing further credits to foreign nations, will engage the attention of the general foreign relations committee to-day.

The committee refers to recent deals said to have been manipulated here that could not have been accomplished by one man. The Dry Federation asserts that if Mayor Smith hesitates to suspend his Safety Director charges will be filed with Governor Harry L. Davis against the mayor.

It also demanded a rigid investigation and declared that the Prosecuting Attorney should attend the investigation to gather facts in regard to the alleged swinging of the big whiskey deals and to ascertain the names of the men involved.

JAPAN ORDERS AIRPLANES FROM ENGLISH COMPANIES

London, Feb. 12.—Substantial orders are being placed with aeroplane manufacturers in this country by Japan, particularly for engines and parts.

Flying boats are also being extensively ordered by the Japanese and their parts are sending agents to Japan for the purpose of extending the business there.

It is stated that the ultimate object of the Japanese is to establish land and coast routes in various parts of the Eastern Empire for commercial purposes.

Attention is, however, drawn to the fact that all the planes now in use for commercial purposes in Europe were originally designed for warfare and that it would be a comparatively easy matter to reverse the process if it became necessary.

Hamilton, O., Feb. 12.—A company of the Butler County Dry Federation demanded in a public letter to Mayor Culbertson J. Smith, the suspension of Henry B. Gravely, Director of Public Safety.

It also demanded a rigid investigation and declared that the Prosecuting Attorney should attend the investigation to gather facts in regard to the alleged swinging of the big whiskey deals and to ascertain the names of the men involved.

County Roads Well-Nigh Impassable Complaints Flood Surveyor's Office

WHY THE MOTORIST IS APT TO USE NAUGHTY WORDS—ONE VIEW OF COLUMBUS PIKE

County Surveyor W. J. Davis and his staff are busy these days. They are renaming the county highways.

Having been going under the perfectly misleading monicker of "such-and-such" pikes now for some time, they are to blossom out in new names that will proclaim their identity to the world. For they are no longer pikes. They are "frights."

Travelers say the county roads are as impassable as were the Marmots at Belleau Wood. There are more people coming into the office of the county surveyor with complaints than there are being named for positions on Harding's cabinet. They are literally "flooding" in from the country. One prominent farmer floated in on an ark and tied his boat to the Court House steps. He was searching for Mt. Ararat. No one could give him any directions.

Those who know why, make the weather man the goat for the whole messy business. It is a good wind that blows no ill, to parody a popular axiom, and mild winters must have their drawbacks, like wild nights and too much to eat. Jack Frost, who generally has a shady reputation in these parts, must have his ears burning from the good things that are said about him. He is a snippy sort of chap, but his presence here during the past winter would have saved the county money and the taxpayers' cuss words.

During a cold winter, the dirt and gravel roads, freeze up tighter than short skirts. They get so hard even big trucks won't chip them off. As a result they are petrified into a condition that defies all travel. In the spring they open up like a morning glory. For a few weeks they ooze up, and then the warm sun subdues them. They dry up, are dragged, and settle down to a quiet; if dust disseminating existence during the balance of the summer.

Then take the opposite, a free and open winter, such as this is supposed to be. The roads are dampened by fall rains. A slight frost hardens them, goes down into the core of the road bed, and then melts out, taking the foundation with it. A heavy truck comes along and squashes out enough congested real estate to pay taxes on. This operation is repeated so successfully that the surveyors have to put up signs to show where the roads are. In the spring they have to go along and collect the roadbed off the rail fences along side. It has been tossed over there by the winter traffic being utterly useless for any other purpose.

That is what has happened to Greene County roads. They are running themselves around in a ring all over the county. Naughty things are being said about the Columbus pike, a hitherto respectable thoroughfare. It has been acting up something awful, it is said. They are staking it down now, to keep it in this county. The Springfield pike, so the story goes, is rougher than a movie bad man. Four men have contracted St. Vitus' dance trying to keep themselves in the front seat of a Ford while traversing it. One man, who wore hip boots, got out in front and pulled his Oliver through with a piece of fishing tackle. He used fishing tackle so he could bait it to come out of the water. It wouldn't float after the tonneau, as we say in Ohio, got full of water.

Enterprising countrymen, according to some reports, are stationing themselves at particularly bad localities, with a team of horses hitched up. They are having elaborate signs painted showing their charge for pulling out autos. Fords $2—other cars according to their size and the color of their body paint.

But, fortunately, the end is in sight. There is nothing much that the county engineers can do now, but wait. The warm spring sunshine, will work wonders with the roads. In the meantime travelers should use sleighs. This mud is slicker than Grover Bergdol.

If there is a delayed spring, the authorities will station life guards in pink bathing suits, at intervals, and other dangerous spots.

Is It Yours?

THIS IS THE BIRTHDAY OF COTTON MATHER

February 12, 1663

Cotton Mather, eldest son of Increase Mather and himself one of the greatest clergymen of our history, was born in Boston in 1663.

The actual events of his life take little time to tell. He entered Harvard at 12, graduated at 15 wanted to become a clergyman, was prevented by an impediment in his speech. This he conquered so thoroughly that he was elected his father's assistant at the North was a man of noble character, tho occasionally vain, of a high strung spiritual nature and he did much for the intellectual and spiritual growth of New England.

DRY LAW BOSS DISCOVERS BOOTLEG LIQUOR IS COSTLY

Washington, February 12—John Kramer, dry law boss, buys bootleg liquor. But not to drink. Kramer is merely playing the game. He must have the evidence.

His latest exploit gave a new turn to enforcement methods.

Kramer paid for some of the stuff he bought as high as $10 a quart and believed he was overcharged.

It seems that Kramer had O. K'd. so many expense bills of "dry" law agents showing heavy outgo for bootleg whiskey he thought he would see for himself.

So the dry chief, along with a squad of his best detectives, sauntered out into the byways of Washington after nightfall. While Washington is "bone dry," there was no scarcity of liquor.

Kramer expects to do a little personal enforcement work in other cities. He may pull the same "stunt" in New York, Baltimore, Philadelphia or Boston, but his itinerary is carefully withheld.

Lowering prices for some grades of bootleg liquor was a disappointment to Kramer. Low price means big supply. Restrictive steps to check the outflow of whiskey from bonded warehouses have been effective, but smuggling and illicit distilling have been difficult to check.

CHILEAN FLEES SUMMER!

New York, February 10—Luis Claro Solar, President of the Chilean Senate, arrived on the steamship Essequibo to pass his "summer" vacation in this country. He said he thought the rigors of winter in the United States offered an escape from the torrid summer of his home country, now at its height. With him were his wife and their son and daughter, Gustavo and Ida.

RAISE NEARLY THIRD ON MILLION FOR NEW EQUIPMENT

Almost one third of the million dollars, to be raised in a campaign among the Lutheran churches in the United States and Canada in connection with raising funds for new equipment for Wittenberg College at Springfield, has been subscribed by 83 Lutheran congregations, two of which have completed their quotas, according to a statement made by Rev. Otto Gerlich, Secretary of the campaign committee, at National headquarters, in Columbus.

The Lutheran Synods throughout the country have been grouped into nine districts, with working organizations, through which reports are made weekly to headquarters.

The local Lutheran Church has not organized a special working committee, but with Rev. B. B. Uhl heading the drive among the entire congregation the contributions to the fund of that church total $400. A definite quota has not been assigned to this city but it is thought that $800 will be reached at the end of the drive.

The nine districts of the country composed of the Eastern district, the English district, Kansas, Nebraska district, Minnesota district, Northern district, Texas district, Washington-Oregon district, Western district, and the Wisconsin district make a total report of $309,496.69 of the million dollar quota.

BOARD OF HEALTH AUTHORIZES CITY TO ISSUE BONDS

Xenia City Commission was authorized and ordered to issue bonds at once to complete the work to put the new water plant in operation at a hearing on the matter before the State Board of Health, Friday, at which Dr. R. H. Grube, City Health Officer, represented the city.

The Board held that while the present supplies of water are pure, through the use of chemicals, that because of the proximity of houses, the supply is subject to contamination at any time and that the supply also may all at any time.

The Board ordered that for this reason there should be no further delay in putting the new and pure supply, which has been passed upon favorably by the Board, into use at once. Delays in securing the equipment to complete the work are now holding up the installation of the first power unit. The ability to issue bonds to complete the work will mean that another power unit will be added at once, provision having been made in the building so that the two old water supplies can be abandoned as soon as possible.

Horace Ankeney of near this city will be the speaker at the celebration of the thirtieth anniversary of the Young People's Mission fund of the Second Reformed Church Dayton Sunday. The service will be held at 7:30 in the evening. Mr. Ankeney will speak on "The Stewardship of Life and Possessions."

He states that an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach retards digestion and starts food fermentation, then our meals sour like garbage in a can, forming acidic fluids and gases which inflate the stomach like a toy balloon. We then get that heavy, lumpy feeling in the chest, we eructate sour food, belch gas, or have heartburn, flatulence, water-brash, or nausea.

He tells us to lay aside all digestive aids and instead, get from any pharmacy four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast while it is effervescent, and furthermore, to continue this for one week. While relief follows the first dose, it is important to neutralize the acidity, remove the gas-making mass, start the liver, stimulate the kidneys and thus promote a free flow of pure digestive juices.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithium and sodium phosphate. This harmless salt is used by thousands of people for stomach trouble with excellent results.

NO INDEMNITY ASKED, AS GERMANY REQUIRED OF FRANCE IN 1870.

It is only natural that there should be lively discussion of the terms of the German reparations, and that it prevails in the United States to as great a degree as in the other allied countries. We had no part in fixing the tentative terms, but we have a vital interest in the final adjustment which is expected to be reached at the London conference.

In all this discussion there is not any disagreement among the allies on the broad proposition that Germany should pay. There is none on whether she has been assessed more than she should pay. There is some as to whether or not she has been called on for more than she will be able to pay. Yet, the preponderance of views is that she can pay. No one disputes that the assessed reparations are less than the actual damage done by her armies. And in this connection it must be remembered that nothing but reparation is demanded. There is no indemnity included such as Germany levied against France in 1870.

The representatives of the other allies on the Reparations Commission have given consideration from a point of contact and knowledge of conditions much closer than that of the United States. They may have erred, but until this is proved it must be accepted that the terms represent the best judgment of the Reparations Commissioners.

AS BETWEEN LLOYD GEORGE'S AND HARDING'S JOBS WOULD PREFER THE LATTER'S.

Has Lloyd George taken a leaf out of Woodrow Wilson's political notebook? Washington politicians were asking themselves that question when they read the British premier's speech before the Welsh National-Liberal Council appealing for support for his coalition administration. Republicans and Democrats alike thought the hard-pressed leader of the British Government talked uncommonly like President Wilson when, in October, 1918, he asked the country to give him a Democratic Congress. Lloyd George, men said sniffs trouble for his political regime just as Woodrow Wilson did two and a half years ago. The prime minister is seen as indulging in "sob stuff" just as, it is asserted, the President did on the eve of the 1918 congressional elections.

Lloyd George seeks national support in his "terrible task"—Ireland and international reconstruction—just as Woodrow Wilson represented to the American electorate he must have a Congress with a willingly-going-along mind in the problems that faced the United States at the end of the war.

Authorities in Washington in touch with latter-day British political developments feel Lloyd George is on the toboggan, despite his incomparable capacity for sticking just when spots seem the most slippery. Northcliffe has been lampooning him mercilessly though in vain for more than two years and today is using the Irish unrest as a battering ram with which the newspaper Napoleon hopes to pulverize him. An impression exists in Washington that the Lloyd George cabinet's uncompromising Irish policy—its refusal to give Ireland complete "dominion home rule" on the Canadian-Australian-South African model is undermining the power the "little Welshman" has wielded for four years.

CINCINNATI INAUGURATES A "BUY-AT-HOME" DRIVE.

The industrial division of the Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce is beginning a campaign to have Cincinnati concerns do their buying as much as possible in Cincinnati. Eighteen hundred firms are represented in the chamber, and the city produces $600,000,000 worth of commodities annually for domestic and foreign consumption.

The chamber is at work on plans to form an "industrial council" of members of the chamber, the Central Labor Council and other bodies representing employers and labor. One purpose of the council would be to relieve unemployment.

Cincinnati's hopes for being the southern terminus of the proposed barge canal from Lake Erie to the Ohio river have been dampened by reports from Washington that Pittsburgh has agreed to construct extensive wharfage and river facilities if the route from Pittsburgh to the lake is chosen. Because of the shorter distance between Pittsburgh and the lake the board is inclined to look with favor on this route.

PREDICTS RETURN OF $25 SUIT.

From Fibre and Fabric.

When the $25 suit, made well and made of good material, is offered the consumer, there will be a big business from a class of men which has been making its old clothing go for the past two years. This is the great middle class of the country, which has been very little benefited by the profiteering wages, but which has been terribly hard hit by the higher cost of living, and has found it necessary to curtail to the extreme to keep out of debt.

The suit basis for millions in this middle class is $25, and the general practice is to buy a new suit in the spring and in the fall. But when the $25 suit went to $50 and $60, old clothes were brought out from closets and chests, and for years the middle class has spent as little as possible.

The clothing industry will enjoy a healthy boom when the $25 suit is presented and found to be of 100 per cent value.

The normal demand from the curtailing middle class will call for fully 10 million new yards of woolens and worsteds, and this means employment for hundreds of hands now idle, so the $25 suit is the basis for normal markets, and the sooner it arrives the sooner the clothing industry will be out of the dumps and on the road to an industrial boom in the woollen branch of the textile business.

Vivian S.—If you are cross-eyed,

you can have yourself cured by a very simple operation. I believe the only thing necessary is to cut a certain little ligament and as the operation is such an easy one it cannot be very expensive, though its cost would depend upon the charges of your physician. You must see an eye surgeon.

Blue Eyes—From your description of yourself, I am sure that the pimples and blackheads are caused by some internal condition. You are probably constipated and you cannot be eating the right sort of food. I would advise you to change your diet so that you eat mostly green vegetables and fruit for a time and to take three cakes of compressed yeast every day.

THE BUSY BARD.

I punch my lyre to buy a tire or sparkplugs for my flivver; I sing a lay to purchase hay and gas and beans and liver. The poet knows but small repose, these days of stress and straining; he works the muse for overshoes to wear when it is raining. He swats the harp to buy a carp to feed his aunts and nieces; he turns out loads of hot stuff odes, on ancient Romes and Greeks. And grocers say, "That rhyming jay takes life so beastly easy, while we must hump or hit the dump, where go the bankrupts cheesey." And plumbers sigh, as they go by, "That poet's graft's a daisy; he merely sits and throws his fits, and he is fat and lazy; and we poor ginks fix busted sinks and faucets that are leaking, and when we're done and ask our mon, the patron's always shrieking." As people walk I hear them talk about the snap I'm owning; I bask at ease and write my wheeze while working men are groaning. But oh, the times when decent rhymes won't come, for all my trying, when my old dame won't frame a poem that men might call undying! The barren days when cheer-up lays it seems, cannot be written! The ghastly nights when he who writes is by the brain-fag smitten! Oh, then the bard would deal in lard, or plumb with plumbers, gayly, if he could soak the harp whose smoke has risen yearly, daily.

MOUNTED POLICE TURN BACK MAD RUSH OF PROSPECTORS

Edmonton, Alta. Feb. 12.—Enforcing the grub stake ordinance of the old Yukon gold stampede, Royal Northwest Police are turning prospectors heading for the Mackenzie River. With winter closing in, hundreds of adventurers have set out with pack trains and dogsleds for the new oil field at Fort Norman to stake claims before the expected rush starts in the spring. The police are overhauling these argonauts on the trails of the North and forbidding all to continue the oohardy journey, who are not physically fit to withstand the rigors of an Arctic winter or who are not adequately provisioned.

Police precautions may prevent a repetition of the tragedies that marked the rush of the Yukon and the Klondike in the gold excitement of 1896. Edmonton was the fitting out point for many of the gold seekers. Few reached their destination. Disheartened by hardships, many turned back. Scores met death and their whitened bones are found from time to time on the wilderness trails.

All signs point to an unprecedented rush to Fort Norman in the Spring. Every berth on steamers on Peace, Athabasca and Slave rivers has been engaged already. The Peace River branch of the Canadian Pacific Rail-

THE GHOST OF SEASONS PAST STALKS OVER PRESENT AUTOMOBILE REGULATIONS

Petition, Urging City Council Of 17 Years Ago "To Strike While the Iron is Hot" To Safeguard Pedestrians, Is Unearthed Among Archives at City Building.

"Whoa, Molly! Drat them dad-blamed devil wagons."

Ebenezer Punk, with the fur-bearing chin, the automatic adam's apple, the guaranteed galluses, the bulky brogans, the omnipresent "chaw," the "haymow" hat, and the baggy blue denims, makes this remark.

He is driving his gosh-blamed can tankerous hay mare Molly, up the main thoroughfare of "this here modern mad' municipality, and the noise shy Dobbin, is snortin' and rarin' right pert, a-strainin' at the lines to get away from a red "ortomobile," with a chronic cough and a peskily uncanny way of travelling. The time is 1904.

Now, as they say on the theater programs "17 years are supposed to have elapsed." The curtain raises on South Detroit street today, with fancy flurries flagrantly flying about, red roadsters, rambling up-roariously around, sedate sedans sandwiched among terrible trucks, panicky pedestrians and crying children. Old Molly, for it is indeed she, kind reader, is dozing on the corner like a tired pugilist at a revival—to show her disdain of modern devices and ingenuity.

Petition Signed

Thus might the picture be painted in the mind's eye, following a personal of a paper purporting to be a petition signed by good and honest taxpayers of this grand old garden spot, some of whom have long since passed away, and some of whom are living in Detroit—a petition encouraging the city council to strike while the iron is hot and pass immediate ordinances governing the operation of automobiles. We say "automobiles" with all seriousness, for there surely was more than one.

The petition, although not such a time-honored relic, being but in the year of the Great World's Fair at St. Louis, was found among papers in the city building by City Auditor T. H. Zell, and it presents an amusing contrast with conditions of today. The automobile, practically in its infancy then, has made such rapid strides, that it has so far kept ahead of all governing regulations. Be that as it may, the petition follows:

Xenia, Ohio, June, 1904.

To the Honorable City Commission of the City of Xenia.

We, the undersigned citizens of Xenia respectfully petition your Honorable body to pass an ordinance regulating the use of Automobiles upon the streets of our city, believing that the lives of our citizens, their wives and children are jeopardized by the more or less reckless manner in which the owners or drivers run these machines.

Request Precautions

We respectfully request that the following precautionary measures be incorporated in said ordinances.

"1 That the speed of autos upon the streets of our city be restricted to rate not exceeding six (6) miles per hour.

"2. That the person or persons said machines shall be required to blow a horn before they turn the corner of any street.

"3. That they shall give two-thirds of the street to persons riding vehicles drawn by horses.

"4. That it shall be the duty of all persons driving said machines to stop when they see a frightened horse approaching, or one which they are passing, to make all possible haste to assist the driver to a point of safety past the machine.

"5. That sufficient penalties be affixed for the violation of any of the provisions of said ordinance and the person or persons so offending, shall be held liable to pay all damages to the person or persons injured in person or property because of such violation."

There were 23 signers of the petition, among them being J. M. Fletcher and R. S. Kingsbury, both of them now automobile owners. The petition is believed to be the forerunner in Xenia of all legislation regulating the use of automobiles.

From Rail Splitter to President; A Boy's Dream Realized

Incidents in the Life of Abraham Lincoln as Told in Pictures

IN 1830 Lincoln's father sold his Indiana farm and decided to make his home in Illinois. After Abraham had visited his neighbors and bade them goodbye, and after a final visit to his mother's grave, the household goods were loaded, the oxen yoked, the family got into the covered wagon, and Lincoln took his place by the oxen to drive. One of the neighbors has said of this incident: "Well do I remember the day the Lincolns left for Illinois. Little did I think that I was looking at a boy who would one day be President of the United States."

THE simple ideal was held before Lincoln that in America if a boy is upright and industrious he may aspire to any place within the gift of the country.

MY friends, no one, not in my position, can appreciate my feeling of sadness at this parting. To this place and the kindness of these people, I owe everything. Here I have lived a quarter of a century, and have passed from a young man to an old man. Here my children have been born and one is buried. I now leave, not knowing when or whether ever I may return with a task before me greater than that which rested upon Washington. Without the assistance of that Divine Being who ever attended him I cannot succeed. With that assistance, I cannot fail. Trusting in Him who can go with me, and remain with you, and be everywhere for good, let us confidently hope that all will yet be well.

LINCOLN was a storekeeper, one day a man drew up in front of the store with a wagon and asked Lincoln if he would buy an old barrel. To oblige the traveler Lincoln bought the barrel and paid him half a dollar for it. When the barrel was emptied, a complete edition of "Blackstone's Commentaries" was found. Lincoln eagerly read these famous law books and his ambition to be a lawyer was greatly stimulated.

WHILE Lincoln was a storekeeper, one day many of the patrons of the New Salem post office lived in the country—many of them miles away—but generally Lincoln delivered the letters at their doors. These he would carefully place in the crown of his hat, and distribute them from house to house. Thus it was in a measure true that he kept the New Salem post office in his hat.

LINCOLN early in life was eager to make speeches. He would commit to memory and repeat all the poems and speeches in the books he could find.

ONE day when the grandfather, Abraham Lincoln, and his son Thomas, the father of the future President, were working in the field, they were suddenly attacked by Indians. Thomas Lincoln's two brothers, Mordecai and Josiah, were near by in the forest. Mordecai, startled by a shot, saw his father fall, and running to the cabin seized the loaded rifle, rushed to one of the loopholes cut through the logs of the cabin, and saw the Indian who had fired. The Indian had just caught the boy Thomas, and was running toward the forest. Pointing the rifle through the logs and aiming at a medal on the breast of the Indian, Mordecai fired. The Indian fell, and springing to his feet the boy ran to the open arms of his mother at the cabin door; thus the life of Thomas Lincoln was saved to become the father of the immortal Abraham Lincoln.

Studying the Constitution of the United

AMONG the books that fell into young Lincoln's hand when he was about eighteen years old was a copy of the "Revised Statutes of Indiana." This book contained the Constitution of the United States and the Declaration of Independence. The reading and study of these two documents made a profound impression on the mind of young Lincoln.

Lincoln Was Always Borrowing Books from His Neighbors

Lincoln at the Slave Market at New Orleans

The Story of a Human Achievement Under the Constitution

IN thirty-one years from the time of this memorable trip, Lincoln was inaugurated President of the United States at the darkest hour of its history. He thus closed his inaugural address: "I am loth to close. We are not enemies but friends. We must not be enemies. Though passion may have strained, it must not break our bonds of affection. The mystic chords of memory, stretching from every battlefield and patriot grave to every living heart and hearthstone all over this broad land, will yet swell the chorus of the Union, when again touched, as surely they will be, by the better angels of our nature."

Lincoln Delivering Inaugural Address

LINCOLN was re-elected President in November, 1864, and began his second term March 4th, following. His second inaugural address ended with the following famous lines: "With malice toward none, with charity for all, with firmness in the right, as God gives us to see the right, let us strive on to finish the work we are in; to bind up the nation's wounds; to care for him who shall have borne the battle, and for his widow and for his orphans; to do all which may achieve and cherish a just and lasting peace among ourselves and with all nations."

Lincoln's Gettysburg Speech

FOURSCORE and seven years ago our fathers brought forth on this continent a new nation conceived in liberty, and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal. Now we are engaged in a great civil war, testing whether that nation, or any nation so conceived and so dedicated, can long endure. We are met upon a great battlefield of that war. We have come to dedicate a portion of that field as a final resting-place of those who gave their lives that this nation might live. It is altogether fitting and proper that we should do this. But in a larger sense we cannot dedicate, we cannot consecrate, we cannot hallow this ground. The brave men, living and dead, who struggled here, have consecrated it, far above our poor power to add or detract. The world will little note or long remember what we say here, but it can never forget what they did here. It is for us, the living, rather, to be dedicated here to the unfinished work which they who fought here have thus far so nobly carried on. It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us, that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave that full measure of devotion; that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain; that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom; and that government of the people, by the people, for the people shall not perish from the earth."

Lincoln as a Farm Hand at 25 Cents a Day

IN the summer of 1839, Lincoln exercised the right of majority and started out to shift for himself. When he left his home he went empty-handed. He was already some months over twenty-one years of age, but he had nothing in the world, not even a suit of respectable clothes.

IN New Orleans for the first time Lincoln beheld the horrors of human slavery. He saw negroes in chains—whipped and scourged. One morning while Lincoln and his companions were rambling over the city they passed a slave auction. A vigorous and comely mulatto girl was being sold. She underwent a thorough examination at the hands of the bidders; they pinched her flesh, and made her trot up and down the room like a horse, to show how she moved, and in order, as the auctioneer said, that "bidders might satisfy themselves whether the article they were offering to buy was sound or not." The whole thing was so revolting that Lincoln moved away from the scene with a deep feeling of "unconquerable hate." Bidding his companions follow him, he said, "Boys, let's get away from this. If I ever get a chance to hit that thing (meaning slavery) I'll hit it hard."

FORD ANTI-JEWISH ARTICLES FOR PEACE

paper would quote him correctly. His present interview might be summarized this way:

1—Ford is attacking the international Jewish bankers in order to promote world peace.

2—He denies that he is anti-semitic, claiming he employs 5,000 Jews and would have signed the antisemitic protest had he been given opportunity.

His desire is to wake up "boob" gentiles and get them to display the same energy and earnestness as the Jews.

"Not through dislike of the Jews, not because of anti-semitism, but because I want the Jews to co-operate with the gentiles to bring about world peace, our paper has been used to expose Jewish propaganda."

Thus does Mr. Ford explain the Dearborn Independent articles.

"We are not anti-semitic. Had the protest against anti-semitism, which was signed by President Wilson, Cardinal O'Connell and others been presented to me I would have signed it."

The best proof of our feeling towards the Jews is the fact that we employ 5,000 Jewish workers.

"It is my desire to bring about world peace. There can be no world peace until the international Jewish bankers cease providing money for war."

It is our purpose through the articles to wake up the gentiles and get them on to their job. We do not blame the Jew for his earnestness and alertness but we do blame the gentle boob for not waking up and being just as earnest and alert.

"These articles are not and have not been anti-semitic in purpose or viewpoint. They simply state facts. In gathering material for them we came across a mountain of facts concealed in silence."

"There was more or less whispering about it all, but no one seemed to have the courage to come out into the open. A whispering campaign always breeds a bad temper."

"In situations of that kind there are but two courses, to suppress the facts and let the whispering continue or to air the matter through frank open discussion. The latter is the only cure."

The same opportunity was open to every other newspaper in the United States. It is not to characterize our campaign of education as anti-semitic. We do not hate the Jews. If we did we would not have them here. But we do have them.

"To bring about world peace the gentiles must be awakened and the international Jewish bankers must be stopped from financing armament. In brief, world peace is intimately connected with the sort of thing we have been exposing."

APPLES, THE HEALTH FRUIT

Apples to appeal to the usual appetite must be delicious if they are to be eaten raw. They should be crisp, cold and full of juice and flavor. If they are not in this perfect state they are best cooked. Seasoning can be added to supply the deficiency in juiciness and flavor.

Salads of which apple is a component part are decided appetizers for luncheon, and even a rather tasteless apple, which we are rather likely to get at this time of the year, can be made appetizing with the vinegar, lemon juice and spices allowed in salads.

For the table, raw apples should be chosen with skins of attractive color. The skins can be rubbed with a damp cloth until they glow, and this is the only doctoring needed to make them very attractive.

You must yourself be the one to decide at what time of day raw apples, or any other raw fruit for that matter, are most welcomed by your system. There is a old saying that fruit is golden at breakfast, silver at luncheon and lead at dinner. But this old saying does not hold good with everybody. Some of us find fruit in a raw state quite unpalatable and even indigestible when eaten in the morning. The same fruit is definitely beneficial eaten just before going to bed.

Apples as a vegetable are often more appetizing than apples as fruit. Fried apples are delicious with certain sorts of meat, and apple sauce is the proper accompaniment of other meat. For luncheon, too, apples can be served as a vegetable with very good results.

PUDDING SAUCES
Fruit Pudding Sauce—Pare two small, tart apples and grate the inside. Beat it with a cup of sugar and the white of an egg for twenty-five minutes. This makes a delicious sauce for any hot pudding. Instead of the apple use crushed strawberries or raspberries or the pulp of ripe peaches.

Sultana Sauce—Wash dry a quarter of a cup of sultana raisins and then remove the stems. Put them over the fire with a cup of boiling water and simmer for thirty minutes, slowly, adding more water if it is necessary. At the end of that time the raisins should be quite soft. Then add half a cup of sugar and boil to a syrup. Add a little lemon juice and more sugar if necessary.

For Plum Pudding—Beat the yolks of three eggs and then add them to the stiff whites of two eggs. Mix them with a cup of rich milk and put them in a double boiler. Cook, stirring all the time, until it is thick and smooth. Remove immediately from the fire, add half a cup of sugar and any desired flavoring and serve.

Uncooked Egg Sauce—Beat the whites of three eggs stiff. Then add a tablespoonful of sugar for each white and beat again thoroughly. Then beat the yolks and add them. Season with vanilla and serve immediately.

DICK LEAVES IN SEARCH OF HEALTH CHAPTER 89

The doctor came that evening and had a long talk with Dick. He was very encouraging, told him it would be only a short time before he picked up in a different climate, while it would take months where we were.

"Will you go, won't you Dick?" I begged after the doctor left.

"I'd be glad to do anything to get well quickly for your sake, Nan, but we can't go west. We haven't the money."

"The money will be had some way," I replied, then said no more.

Dick looked so tired, so white and wan I feared that even the doctor's call had hurt him.

But the next morning when he felt a little better and brighter I said:

"Dick, you must go to California the last of the week." It was then

Tuesday.

"But Nan, how—"

"Don't ask any questions, dear, I have enough for your fare, and for the first weeks of your stay coming in."

"My fare?"

"Yes."

"What about your's? I suppose you will leave Junior with mother if we do go."

"You must go without me, Dick. I will come on later. I have too much work promised to leave honorably." I had made up my mind this was the one plea that would have weight with him, and it was really true. The work had piled up while Dick had been sick, although my girls had been wonderful.

"You mean I am to go way out there alone?" amazement in his voice and face.

"For a time, yes. I'll come just as soon as I can."

"I can't do it, Nan. I'd die of loneliness."

"You must go, Dick." I think there was something in my face that started him. Something I had not meant to show, but that proved my fears, for he said quietly:

"Very well, Nan, I'll go." Then it seems dreadful to have you work for me."

I felt like saying that it was because of my wrong doing that things were as they were, but refrained.

only asked:
"Wouldn't you work for me?"
"Of course!"

"There is no difference, Dick. And it will break my heart if you allow yourself to have any foolish notions about it. My business is established. I am a success in a small way in it. You know that, so need not think of me trying some new notion without assurance of its success. I shall come to you as soon as I can. But, dear, when I do, it will be to find you almost well and ready to come home. Even the doctor said you would be sure to put up a good fight for your health because of Junior and me."

"And because of you two I will!" he declared with the first bit of animation he had shown since I had told him he must go alone.

But the next morning when he felt a little better and brighter I said:

"Dick, you must go to California the last of the week." It was then

Tuesday.

"But, Dick, I can't help feeling as I do—that if I had been the right sort of a wife you never would have been here, never been ill."

"Nan, I was just as weak, just as wicked. Let us make a bargain. Never to speak of it again. We are happy, the past is over and done with. Perhaps, dear, I am a better man, you a better woman because of it. Even if we cannot change it."

"I know, dear. And I realize that.

SAYS U. S. HAS RIGHT IDEA IN NAVY BUILDING

Big Surface Fleet Is Wise Course Says Frenchman.

"SUB" BACK NUMBER

Can Be Successfully Eliminated By Aircraft and Guns.

Paris, Feb. 12.—The American naval policy of constructing a big surface fleet instead of relying upon submarines and airplanes was defended as wise and proper today by Pierre Dupuy, president of the naval committee of the French chamber of deputies in an interview with the International News Service.

"The United States is right in constructing a big surface fleet and not relying on submarines and airplanes which are valuable only as auxiliaries," said Dupuy. "Nothing in the history of the recent war and nothing indicated by science for the future proves that battleships and cruisers are obsolete. However four 15,000 ton ships are to be preferred to one 60,000 ton warship, on the principle that a nation should not put all its eggs in one basket."

"I cannot deny the importance of the role the German submarines played early in the war, sinking a large number of isolated ships, and thus interfering with the supplies and transports. But the same conditions did not exist at the end of the war. At the end of the conflict the allies were rendering efficacious service against the German submarines. The frequent destruction of the underwater craft had the crews demoralized."

"What you ask, can the submarine do in the future against merchantmen armed with rapid fire long range guns and defended by airplanes and warships?"

"I do not believe that submarine cruisers can change the situation. They are unwise to maneuver and expose themselves to enemy warships and airplanes. Furthermore the navigation of big submarines has not been perfected. This was proved by the recent loss of the British submarine K-5 with a loss of 56 lives."

"The submarine has advantages as a weapon of attack while escorting warships but when isolated is doomed to flight or destruction by hostile men of war and airplanes. Progress in science has made it easy to detect the presence of submarines."

"At the beginning of the war the allies made the mistake of navigating in dispersed order. Later when ships were reinforced by destroyers and airplanes they moved in groups along secret routes and the danger of being torpedoed was reduced to practically nothing. Look back for instance to the manner in which the United States transports brought the great American army across the Atlantic in safety. Those vessels came in groups."

"France contemplates for 1921 the construction of six miles of crusiers, twelve destroyers and twelve submarines. We believe that is sufficient for this year."

MAY TRACE ROBBERY TO STREET BEGGAR

Marion, O., Feb. 1.—It was learned today that John E. Waddell, president of the Marion Building, Savings and Loan Company, the office of which was entered by a lone unmasked bandit who escaped with $272.50 Wednesday, early that day had refused alms to a man whose description, the police say, tallies exactly with the man who held up the bank. Waddell not only refused the fellow alms but he gave him a lecture or going to work.

"Did the holdup man know that it was Waddell's institution he was robbing?"

GENERAL CHARLES G. DAWES TO CONFER WITH HARDING; SECRECY IS MAINTAINED

Possible Members Of Next Cabinet To Visit St. Augustine In Near Future—Policies May Be Outlined At Conferences.

St. Augustine, Fla., Feb. 12.—Gen. not be a member of the cabinet.

The approaching visits to St. Augustine of possible members of the Harding cabinet is believed here to foreshadow the desire of the president elect that the men who will head his most important departments, prepare themselves in advance to carry out his policies. The pressing importance of the international situation is believed will be thoroughly discussed with Charles Evans Hughes, strongly indicated as the next secretary of state. Mail and telegrams already have begun to arrive here in anticipation of the arrival of James Davis, forecast as secretary of labor. The gravity with which labor situation is regarded by the railroad executives is emphasized by the presence in the St. Augustine yards of half a dozen private cars housing men who direct the policies of important roads.

The arrival of other men counted on to take a large part in the councils of the coming administration was definitely forecast by Mr. Harding today.

While the president elect has care fully avoided any indication of whether General Dawes still is under consideration and has smilingly assured newspapermen that they cannot do more than guess whether he will offer a post to the Illinois banker or inform him he cannot appoint him. The general feeling prevails among men close to the president elect that General Dawes will be thoroughly discussed with Charles Evans Hughes, strongly indicated as the next secretary of state. LANDIS HAS RIGHT TO BE ARBITRATOR DECLARES PALMER

Attorney General Rules
Judge May Hold Two Positions.

Washington, Feb. 12.—Federal Judge Landis of Chicago was with in the law when he accepted the office of supreme baseball arbitrator while still serving on the bench. Attorney General Palmer declared in a letter to Representative Welty, who had questioned the judge's right to hold both positions.

Mr. Welty introduced a bill making it unlawful for any judge to receive compensation for exercising the duties of arbitrator, commissioner or officer of any corporation. He said that if he could not persuade the house rules committee to give the bill a privileged status he would call it up on the floor.

After examining the question raised by Mr. Welty, who insisted that Judge Landis could not properly accept $42,000 a year as baseball arbitrator, the attorney general said such acceptance was "not a crime, either misdemeanor or felony."

"Classification will mean that farms and homes will pay more tax than somebody else expects to pay," said President Chester. "Every citizen who enjoys the benefits and protection of government should pay his taxes, leave Ohio or go to jail. Every tax dodger and hungry horde of tax spenders in Ohio want the classification amendment made a part of our constitution," he said.

Washington, Feb. 12.—The navy appropriation bill ran through hostile waters in the House but at the end was still afloat.

Shot at from all sides, it almost went down at times as members attempted to riddle certain provisions of $395,000,000. Measure one section, on the point of going out, was saved by Chairman Thomas S. Butler, of the Naval Affairs Committee, who went to the front and rescued it.

Opposition to the bill cropped out as a result of the general dissatisfaction with the method of framing appropriation legislation. Heretofore the Naval bill has been drafted by the Naval Committee, but under the so-called budget system that committee holds its hands while a subcommittee on appropriations does the work.

Houston will appear before the committee in secret or executive session. He has promised to furnish the committee all "confidential" and other information possessed by the treasury department regarding the present status of the financial obligations of Great Britain and other foreign governments to this country.

BATTLE OCCURS ON TRAIN HELD UP IN IRELAND

One British Soldier Killed
In Sinn Fein Attack.

TRAIN FIRED UPON

Soldiers Objects Of Attack
By Irish In Early Morning Fight.

Dublin, Feb. 12.—At least one British soldier was killed and a number of officers and privates were wounded in a desperate battle with Sinn Feiners on board a train early today. There were fourteen British officers and privates on the train which was bound from Dublin to Killarney. Two armed Sinn Feiners boarded the locomotive and ordered the engineer to go at full speed for twenty miles. After this burst of speed the engineer was ordered to stop the train at an isolated spot where the telegraph wires had been cut. Two hundred men then opened an attack against the coach in which the soldiers were riding. There was a terrific fusillade of shots. One officer fell wounded and a sergeant was killed. Five of the privates were hit by flying bullets and the others surrounded.

The Sinn Feiners seized all the soldiers' weapons and ordered the engineer to proceed with the dead and wounded to Killarney. During the firing the civilian passengers flung themselves upon the floor to escape the bullets that were crashing through the windows.

Dublin Castle gave an official version of the attack, saying that it had occurred near Mill street. The following warning was issued by Dublin Castle.

In view of this and similar incidents, if there is a repetition it will lead to the closing of any rail line in the martial law zone where such an attack may be made."

U. S. BLUEJACKETS ARE FIRED UPON AT RUSSIAN SEAPORT

Bolsheviks Blamed For Shooting Says Japanese Newspaper

Tokio, Feb. 12.—Five American bluejackets were fired at by persons unknown at Vladivostok at 11 o'clock Tuesday night, one of them being wounded, says the Asahi Shimbun's Vladivostok correspondent.

The Americans, reinforced by Russian policemen, arrested three Russian officers, formerly under the late General Kappel, once commander of the Western armies of the Omsk government, the correspondent adds.

The impression in Vladivostok, according to the correspondent, is that the attack was arranged by communists with the object of staining relations between Japan and the United States.

Washington, Feb. 12.—The attack on five American bluejackets at Vladivostok Tuesday night as announced by the Asahi Shimbun of Tokio, had not been reported to the navy department. In the absence of an official report, department officials report, department officials refused comment.

Columbus, O., Feb. 12.—Declaring that farmers and home owners are opposed to classification of property for taxation purposes, Representative John H. Chester, Paulding county, president of the Corn Stalk Club, made up of house members from agricultural counties, has issued a statement to members of the club urging them to consult with farm and home owners in their counties before supporting the Silver measure.

County Roads Well-Nigh Impassable Complaints Flood Surveyor's Office

WHY THE MOTORIST IS APT TO USE NAUGHTY WORDS—ONE VIEW OF COLUMBUS PIKE

County Surveyor W. J. Davis and his staff are busy these days. They are renaming the county highways.

Having been going under the perfectly misleading monicker of "such-and-such" pikes now for some time, they are to blossom out in new names that will proclaim their identity to the world. For they are no longer pikes. They are "frights."

Travelers say the county roads are as impassable as were the Marines at Belleau Wood. There are more people coming into the office of the county surveyor with complaints than there are being named for positions on Harding's cabinet. They are literally "flooding" in from the country. One prominent farmer floated in on an ark and tied his boat to the Court House steps. He was searching for Mt. Ararat. No one could give him any directions.

Those who know why, make the weather man the goat for the whole messy business.

It is a good wind that blows no ill, to parody a popular axiom, and mild winters must have their drawbacks, like wild nights and too much to eat. Jack Frost, who generally has a shady reputation in these parts, must have his ears burning from the good things that are said about him. He is a snippy sort of chap, but his presence here during the past winter would have saved the county money and the taxpayers curse words.

During a cold winter, the dirt and gravel roads, freeze up tighter than short skirts. They get so hard even big trucks won't chip them of. As a result they are petrified into a condition that defies all travel. In the spring they open up like a morning glory. For a few weeks they ooze up, and then the warm sun subdues them. They dry up, are dragged, and settle down to a quiet, if dust disseminating existence during the balance of the summer.

Then take the opposite, a free and open winter, such as this is supposed to be. The roads are dammed by fall rains. A slight frost hardens them, goes down into the core of the road bed, and then melts out, taking the foundation with it. A heavy truck comes along and squashes out enough congested real estate to pay taxes on. This operation is repeated so successfully that the surveyors have to put up signs to show where the roads are. In the spring they have to go along and collect the roadbed off the rail father's assistant at the North was a man of noble character, tho' occasionally vain, of a high strung spiritual nature and he did much for the intellectual and spiritual growth of New England.

DRY LAW BOSS DISCOVERS BOOTLEG LIQUOR IS COSTLY

Washington, February 12—John Kramer, dry law boss, buys bootleg liquor. But not to drink. Kramer is merely playing the game. He must have the "evidence."

His latest exploit gave a new turn to enforcement methods.

Kramer paid for some of the stuff he bought as high as $10 a quart and believed he was overcharged.

It seems that Kramer had O. K'd. so many expense bills of "dry" law agents showing heavy outgo for bootleg whiskey he thought he would see for himself.

So the dry chief, along with a squad of his best detectives, sauntered out into the byways of Washington after nightfall. While Washington is "bone dry," there was no scarcity of liquor.

Kramer expects to do a little personal enforcement work in other cities. He may pull the same "stunt" in New York, Baltimore, Philadelphia or Boston, but his itinerary is carefully withheld.

Lowering prices for some grades of bootleg liquor was a disappointment to Kramer. Low price means big supply. Restrictive steps to check the outflow of whiskey from bonded warehouses have been effective, but smuggling and illicit distilling have been difficult to check.

CHILEAN FLEES SUMMER!

New York, February 10—Luis Claro Solar, President of the Chilean Senate, arrived on the steamship Essequibo to pass his "summer" vacation in this country. He said he thought the rigors of winter in the United States offered an escape from the torrid summer of his home country, now at its height. With him were his wife and their son and daughter, Gustavo and Ida.

RAISE NEARLY THIRD ON MILLION FOR NEW EQUIPMENT

Almost one third of the million dollars, to be raised in a campaign among the Lutheran churches in the United States and Canada in connection with raising funds for new equipment for Wittenberg College at Springfield, has been subscribed by 83 Lutheran congregations, two of which have completed their quotas, according to a statement made by Rev. Otto Gerlich, Secretary of the campaign committee, at National headquarters, in Columbus.

The Lutheran Synods throughout the country have been grouped into nine districts, with working organizations, through which reports are made weekly to headquarters.

The local Lutheran Church has organized a special working committee, but with Rev. B. B. Uhl heading the drive among the entire congregation, the contributions to the fund of that church total $400. A definite quota has not been assigned to this city but it is thought that $800 will be reached at the end of the drive.

The nine districts of the country composed of the Eastern district, the English district, Kansas, Nebraska district, Minnesota district, Northern district, Texas district, Washington-Oregon district, Western district, and the Wisconsin district make a total report of $309,496.69 of the million dollar quota.

Lorain, O., Feb. 12.—Police authorities were notified at 10 o'clock last night that three holdups had been perpetrated near 28th street and Oakwood Avenue. Policemen arrived on the scene in time to see the bandits going through the pockets of Daniel Moldovan, who on seeing the police ran toward Sergeant Murphy, while the bandits started shooting. Moldovan was hit at the first shot, the bullet penetrating both lungs. Sergeant Murphy dropped as a result of the second bullet, which entered over his left eye. A running pistol duel ensued, Officer Spore hitting the bandit who was believed unconscious and carried to the porch of a nearby home while the officer telephoned for an ambulance. On his return he found the holdup man had dashed away and no trace of him has been found. He is believed to be one of four men who yesterday held up a steel mill employee robbing him of $166.

JUDGE SATTER TO CONSIDER RAIL RATES

Columbus, Feb. 12.—Following the submission of oral argument, federal Judges J. E. Satter, Columbus; Maurice H. Donahue, Cincinnati, and Arthur C. Denison, Grand Rapids, Mich., this afternoon took under advisement the joint request of the steam railroads operating in Ohio for a temporary injunction preventing state and county officials throughout Ohio from interfering with the decree of the interstate commerce commission raising passenger fares to 3.6 cents per mile and boosting milk and cream shipments 20 percent on all interstate traffic.

The Board held that while the present supplies of water are pure, through the use of chemicals, that because of the proximity of houses, the supply is subject to contamination at any time and that the supply also may all at any time.

The Board ordered that for this reason there should be no further delay in putting the new and pure supply, which has been passed upon favorably by the Board, into use at once. Delays in securing the equipment to complete the work are now holding up the installation of the first power unit. The ability to issue bonds to complete the work will mean that another power unit will be added at once, provision having been made in the building so that the two old water supplies can be abandoned as soon as possible.

GIRL HAS "TALKING SICKNESS," REPORT

Waukegan, Ills., Feb. 12—Chicago's leading physicians are baffled today by the case of Miriam, 8 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Rubind here who has been talking constantly since last Saturday, despite all efforts to stop her. She has kept up the conversation with members of the family and attendants ever since, sleeping only two hours last Monday night during which time she continued talking. The theory was advanced at first that the malady might be a forerunner of sleeping sickness or pneumonia but this is now discounted. Her appetite has been quite good during her "talking sickness."

NO INDEMNITY ASKED, AS GERMANY REQUIRED OF FRANCE IN 1870.

It is only natural that there should be lively discussion of the terms of the German reparations, and that it prevails in the United States to as great a degree as in the other allied countries. We had no part in fixing the tentative terms, but we have a vital interest in the final adjustment which is expected to be reached at the London conference.

In all this discussion there is not any disagreement among the allies on the broad proposition that Germany should pay. There is none on whether she has been assessed more than she should pay. There is some as to whether or not she has been called on for more than she will be able to pay. Yet, the preponderance of views is that she can pay. No one disputes that the assessed reparations are less than the actual damage done by her armies. And in this connection it must be remembered that nothing but reparation is demanded. There is no indemnity included such as Germany levied against France in 1870.

The representatives of the other allies on the Reparations Commission have given consideration from a point of contact and knowledge of conditions much closer than that of the United States. They may have erred, but until this is proved it must be accepted that the terms represent the best judgment of the Reparations Commissioners.

AS BETWEEN LLOYD GEORGE'S AND HARDING'S JOBS WOULD PREFER THE LATTER'S.

Has Lloyd George taken a leaf out of Woodrow Wilson's political notebook? Washington politicians were asking themselves that question when they read the British premier's speech before the Welsh National-Liberal Council appealing for support for his coalition administration. Republicans and Democrats alike thought the hard-pressed leader of the British Government talked uncommonly like President Wilson when, in October, 1918, he asked the country to give him a Democratic Congress. Lloyd George, men said sniffs trouble for his political regime just as Woodrow Wilson did two and a half years ago. The prime minister is seen as indulging in "sob stuff" just as, it is asserted, the President did on the eve of the 1918 congressional elections.

Lloyd George seeks national support in his "terrible task"—Ireland and international reconstruction—just as Woodrow Wilson represented to the American electorate he must have a Congress with a willingly-going-along mind in the problems that faced the United States at the end of the war.

Authorities in Washington in touch with latter-day British political developments feel Lloyd George is on the toboggan, despite his incomparable capacity for sticking just when spots seem the most slippery. Northcliffe has been lampooning him mercilessly though in vain for more than two years and today is using the Irish unrest as a battering ram with which the newspaper Napoleon hopes to pulverize him. An impression exists in Washington that the Lloyd George cabinet's uncompromising Irish policy—its refusal to give Ireland complete "dominion home rule" on the Canadian-Australian-South African model is undermining the power the "little Welshman" has wielded for four years.

CINCINNATI INAUGURATES A "BUY-AT-HOME" DRIVE.

The industrial division of the Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce is beginning a campaign to have Cincinnati concerns do their buying as much as possible in Cincinnati. Eighteen hundred firms are represented in the chamber, and the city produces $600,000,000 worth of commodities annually for domestic and foreign consumption.

The chamber is at work on plans to form an "industrial council" of members of the chamber, the Central Labor Council and other bodies representing employers and labor. One purpose of the council would be to relieve unemployment.

Cincinnati's hopes for being the southern terminus of the proposed barge canal from Lake Erie to the Ohio river have been dampered by reports from Washington that Pittsburgh has agreed to construct extensive wharfage and river facilities if the route from Pittsburgh to the lake is chosen. Because of the shorter distance between Pittsburgh and the lake the board is inclined to look with favor on this route.

PREDICTS RETURN OF $25 SUIT.

From Fibre and Fabric.

When the $25 suit, made well and made of good material, is offered the consumer, there will be a big business from a class of men which has been making its old clothing go for the past two years. This is the great middle class of the country, which has been very little benefited by the profiteering wages, but which has been terribly hard hit by the higher cost of living, and has found it necessary to curtail to the extreme to keep out of debt.

The suit basis for millions in this middle class is $25, and the general practice is to buy a new suit in the spring and in the fall. But when the $25 suit went to $50 and $60, old clothes were brought out from closets and chests, and for years the middle class has spent as little as possible.

The clothing industry will enjoy a healthy boom when the $25 suit is presented and found to be of 100 per cent value.

The normal demand from the curtailing middle class will call for fully 10 million new yards of woolens and worsteds, and this means employment for hundreds of hands now idle, so the $25 suit is the basis for normal markets, and the sooner it arrives the sooner the clothing industry will be out of the dumps and on the road to an industrial boom in the woolen branch of the textile business.

Vivian S.—If you are cross-eyed,

you can have yourself cured by a very simple operation. I believe the only thing necessary is to cut a certain little ligament and as the operation is such an easy one it cannot be very expensive, though its cost would depend upon the charges of your physician. You must see an eye surgeon.

Blue Eyes—From your description of yourself, I am sure that the pimples and blackheads are caused by some internal condition. You are probably constipated and you cannot be eating the right sort of food. I would advise you to change your diet so that you eat mostly green vegetables and fruit for a time and to take three cakes of compressed yeast every day.

I punch my lyre to buy a tire or sparkplugs for my flivver; I sing a lay to purchase hay and gas and beans and liver. The poet knows but small repose, these days of stress and straining; he works the muse for overshoes to wear when it is raining. He swats the harp to buy a carp to feed his aunts and nieces; he turns out loads of hot stuff odes, on ancient Romes and Greeks. And grocers say, "That rhyming jay takes life so beastly easy, while we must hump or hit the dump, where go the bankrupts cheeses." And plumbers sigh, as they go by, "That poet's graft's a daisy; he merely sits and throws his fits, and he is fat and lazy; and we poor ginks fix busted sinks and faucets that are leaking, and when we're done and ask our mon, the patron's always shrieking." As people walk I hear them talk about the snap I'm owning; I bask at ease and write my wheeze while working men are groaning. But oh, the times when decent rhymes won't come, for all my trying, when my old domine won't frame a poem that men might call undying! The barren days when cheer-up lays it seems, cannot be written! The ghastly nights when he writes is by the brain-fag smitten! Oh, then the bard would deal in lard, or plumb with plumbers, gayly, if he could soak the harp whose smoke has risen yearly, daily.

MOUNTED POLICE TURN BACK MAD RUSH OF PROSPECTORS

Edmonton, Alta. Feb. 12.—Enforcing the grub stake ordinance of the old Yukon gold stampede, Royal Northwest Police are turning prospectors heading for the Mackenzie River. With winter closing in, hundreds of adventurers have set out with pack trains and dogsleds for the new oil field at Fort Norman to stake claims before the expected rush starts in the spring. The police are overhauling these argonauts on the trails of the North and forbidding all to continue the oilhardy journey, who are not physically fit to withstand the rigors of an Arctic winter or who are not adequately provisioned.

Police precautions may prevent a repetition of the tragedies that marked the rush of the Yukon and the Klondike in the gold excitement of 1896. Edmonton was the fitting out point for many of the gold seekers. Few reached their destination. Disheartened by hardships, many turned back. Scores met death and their whitened bones are found from time to time on the wilderness trails.

All signs point to an unprecedented rush to Fort Norman in the spring. Every berth on steamers on Peace, Athabasca and Slave rivers has been engaged already. The Peace River branch of the Canadian Pacific Rail-

THE GHOST OF SEASONS PAST STALKS OVER PRESENT AUTOMOBILE REGULATIONS

Petition, Urging City Council Of 17 Years Ago "To Strike While the Iron is Hot" To Safeguard Pedestrians, Is Unearthed Among Archives at City Building.

"Whoa, Molly! Drat them dad-blamed devil wagons."

Ebenezer Punk, with the fur-bearing chin, the automatic adam's apple, the guaranteed galluses, the bulky brogans, the omnipresent "chaw," the "haymow" hat, and the baggy blue denims, makes this remark.

He is driving his gosh-blamed can tankerous bay mare Molly, up the main thoroughfare of "this here modern mad' municipality, and the noise shay Dobbin, is snortin' and rarin' right pert, a-strainin' at the lines to get away from a red "automobile," with a chronic cough and a peskily uncanny way of travelling. The time is 1904.

Now, as they say on the theater programs "17 years are supposed to have elapsed." The curtain raises on South Detroit street today, with fancy flirvers flagrantly flying about, red roadsters, rambling up-roariously around, sedate sedans sandwiched among terrible trucks, panicky pedestrians and crying children. Old Molly, for it is indeed she, kind reader, is dozing on the corner like a tired pugilist at a revival—to show her disdain of modern devices and ingenuity.

Petition Signed

Thus might the picture be painted in the mind's eye, following a perusal of a paper purporting to be a petition signed by good and honest taxpayers of this grand old garden spot, some of whom have long since passed away, and some of whom are living in Detroit—a petition encouraging the city council to strike while the iron is hot and pass immediate ordinances governing the operation of automobiles. We say "automobiles" with all seriousness, for there surely was more than one.

The petition, although not such a time-honored relic, being but in the year of the Great World's Fair at St. Louis, was found among papers in the city building by City Auditor T. H. Zell, and it presents an amusing contrast with conditions of today. The automobile, practically in its infancy then, has made such rapid strides, that it has so far kept ahead of all governing regulations.

Be that as it may, the petition follows:

"Xenia, Ohio, June, 1904.

"To the Honorable City Commission of the City of Xenia:

"We, the undersigned citizens of Xenia respectfully petition your Honorable body to pass an ordinance regulating the use of Automobiles upon the streets of our city, believing that the lives of our citizens, their wives and children are jeopardized by the more or less reckless manner in which the owners or drivers run these machines.

Request Precautions

"We respectfully request that the following precautionary measures be incorporated in said ordinances:

"1. That the speed of autos upon the streets of our city be restricted to a rate not exceeding six (6) miles per hour.

"2. That the person or persons running said machines shall be required to blow a horn before they turn the corner of any street.

"3. That they shall give two-thirds of the street to persons riding vehicles drawn by horses.

"4. That it shall be the duty of all persons driving said machines to stop when they see a frightened horse approaching, or one which they are passing, to make all possible haste to assist the driver to a point of safety past the machine.

"5. That sufficient penalties be affixed for the violation of any of the provisions of said ordinance and the person or persons so offending, shall be held liable to pay all damages to the person or persons injured in person or property because of such violation."

There were 23 signers of the petition, among them being J. M. Fletcher and R. S. Kingsbury, both of them now automobile owners. The petition is believed to be the forerunner in Xenia of all legislation regulating the use of automobiles.

"E Pluribus Unum," or in other words, "how time do hurdle."

WHISKY CONFISCATED

Akron, O., Feb. 12.—Vice squad officers arrested seven men and one woman and then confiscated a Ford truck and over 300 quarts of whisky.

Washington, Feb. 12.—Lieutenant John Henry Heitz Menken, pilot and Lieutenant Jacob Wolfer, observer, were killed when a naval airplane was wrecked at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, the navy department was informed.

From Rail Splitter to President; A Boy's Dream Realized

Incidents in the Life of Abraham Lincoln as Told in Pictures

IN 1830 Lincoln's father sold his Indiana farm and decided to make his home in Illinois. After Abraham had visited his neighbors and bade them goodbye, and after a final visit to his mother's grave, the household goods were loaded, the oxen yoked, the family got into the covered wagon, and Lincoln took his place by the oxen to drive. One of the neighbors has said of this incident: "Well do I remember the day the Lincolns left for Illinois. Little did I think that I was looking at a boy who would one day be President of the United States."

THE simple ideal was held before Lincoln that in America that if a boy is upright and industrious he may aspire to any place within the gift of the country.

LINCOLN was a great rail splitter. Dennis Hanks a friend of Lincoln's youth said speaking of the boy's strength: "My how he would chop! His axe would flash and bite into the sugar-tree or sycamore, and down it would come. If you heard him fellin' trees in a clearin' you would say that there were three men at work, the way the trees fell." When Lincoln was nominated for the Presidency and many times during the campaign rails which Lincoln split were carried about to evoke enthusiasm. Lincoln declared that he could not say that he split the particular rails on exhibition but that he split many just as good.

MY friends, no one, not in my position, can appreciate my feeling of sadness at this parting. To this place and the kindness of these people, I owe everything. Here I have lived a quarter of a century, and have passed from a young man to an old man. Here my children have been born and one is buried. I now leave, not knowing when or whether ever I may return with a task before me greater than that which rested upon Washington. Without the assistance of that Divine Being who ever attended him I cannot succeed. With that assistance, I cannot fail. Trusting in Him who can go with me, and remain with you, and be everywhere for good, let us confidently hope that all will yet be well."

LINCOLN was famous as a Story-Teller. In every American, every lover of liberty, every well-wisher to his posterity swear by the blood of the Revolution never to violate in the least particular the laws of the country, and never to tolerate their violation by others. As the patriots of Seventy-six died to support the Constitution, and laws, let every American pledge his life, his property, and his sacred honor—let every man remember that to violate the law is to trample on the blood of his father, and to tear the charter of his own and his children's liberty.

Let reverence for the law be breathed by every American mother to the lisping babe that prattles on her lap; let it be taught in schools, in seminaries, and in colleges.

WHILE keeping store Lincoln was appointed postmaster. A large number of the patrons of the New Salem post office lived in the country—many of them miles away—but generally Lincoln delivered the letters at their doors. These he would carefully place in the crown of his hat, and distribute them from house to house. Thus it was in a measure true that he kept the New Salem post office in his hat.

LINCOLN early in life was eager to make speeches. He would commit to memory and repeat all the poems and speeches in the books he could find.

ONE day when the grandfather, Abraham Lincoln, and his son Thomas, the father of the future President, were working in the field, they were suddenly attacked by Indians. Thomas Lincoln's two brothers, Mordacai and Josiah, were near by in the forest. Mordacai, startled by a shot, saw his father fall, and running to the cabin seized the loaded rifle, rushed to one of the loopholes cut through the logs of the cabin, and saw the Indian who had fired. The Indian had just caught the boy Thomas, and was running toward the forest. Pointing the rifle through the logs and aiming at a medallion on the breast of the Indian, Mordacai fired. The Indian fell, and springing to his feet the boy ran to the open arms of his mother at the cabin door; thus the life of Thomas Lincoln was saved to become the father of the immortal Abraham Lincoln.

Studying the Constitution of the United

AMONG the books that fell into young Lincoln's hand when he was about eighteen years old was a copy of the "Revised Statutes of Indiana." This book contained the Constitution of the United States and the Declaration of Independence. The reading and study of these two documents made a profound impression on the mind of young Lincoln.

Lincoln as Postmaster of New Salem

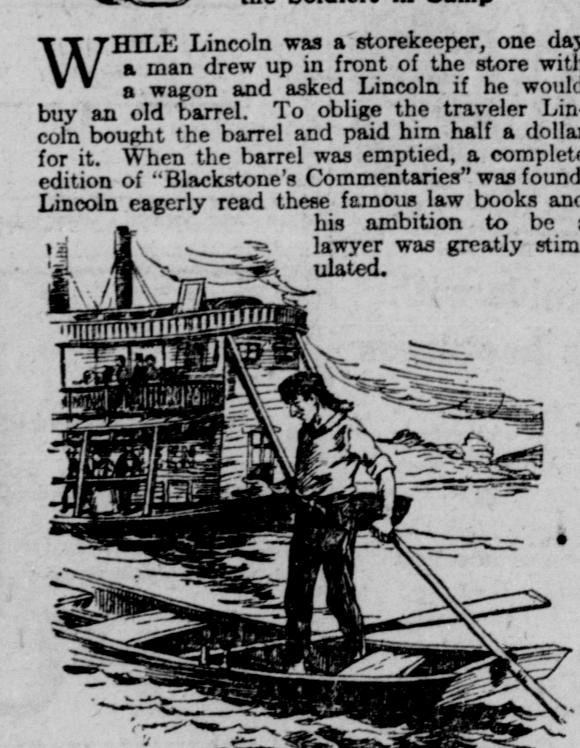

The Story of a Human Achievement Under the Constitution

IN thirty-one years from the time of this memorable trip, Lincoln was inaugurated President of the United States at the darkest hour of its history. He thus closed his inaugural address: "I am loth to close. We are not enemies but friends. We must not be enemies. Though passion may have strained, it must not break our bonds of affection. The mystic chords of memory, stretching from every battlefield and patriot grave to every living heart and hearthstone all over this broad land, will yet swell the chorus of the Union, when again touched, as surely they will be, by the better angels of our nature."

Lincoln Earnings His First Half Dollar

LINCOLN had just built a small boat to take produce to New Orleans when a steamer was going down the river. Two men with trunks came down to the shore in carriages and looking at the different boats, asked Lincoln to take them and their trunks out to the steamer as there were no wharves at that time. The trunks were put in the boat, the passengers seated themselves on them, and Lincoln sculled them out to the steamer. After the travelers were on deck and the steamer ready to steam out, each of them took from his pocket a silver half dollar and threw it on the bottom of Lincoln's boat. Lincoln said afterwards, "I could hardly believe my eyes as I picked up the money."

Lincoln Delivering Inaugural Address

LINCOLN was re-elected President in November, 1864, and began his second term March 4th, following. His second inaugural address ended with the following famous lines: "With malice toward none, with charity for all, with firmness in the right, as God gives us to see the right, let us strive on to finish the work we are in; to bind up the nation's wounds; to care for him who shall have borne the battle, and for his widow and for his orphans; to do all which may achieve and cherish a just and lasting peace among ourselves and with all nations."

Lincoln Becomes One of the Leading Lawyers in Illinois

LINCOLN'S Gettysburg Speech
FOURSCORE and seven years ago our fathers brought forth on this continent a new nation conceived in liberty, and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal. Now we are engaged in a great civil war, testing whether that nation, or any nation so conceived and so dedicated, can long endure. We are met upon a great battlefield of that war. We have come to dedicate a portion of that field as a final resting-place of those who gave their lives that this nation might live. It is altogether fitting and proper that we should do this. But in a larger sense we cannot dedicate, we cannot consecrate, we cannot hallow this ground. The brave men, living and dead, who struggled here, have consecrated it, far above our poor power to add or detract. The world will little note nor long remember what we say here, but it can never forget what they did here. It is for us, the living, rather, to be dedicated here, to the unfinished work which they who fought here have thus far nobly carried on. It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us, that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave that full measure of devotion; that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain; that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom; and that government of the people, by the people, for the people shall not perish from the earth."

Lincoln at the Slave Market at New Orleans

IN the summer of 1830, Lincoln exercised the right of majority and started out to shift for himself. When he left his home he went empty-handed. He was already some months over twenty-one years of age, but he had nothing in the world, not even a suit of respectable clothes.

In New Orleans for the first time Lincoln beheld the true horrors of human slavery. He saw negroes in chains—whipped and scourged. One morning while Lincoln and his companions were rambling over the city they passed a slave auction. A vigorous and comely mulatto girl was being sold. She underwent a thorough examination at the hands of the bidders; they pinched her flesh, and made her trot up and down the room like a horse, to show how she moved, and in order, as the auctioneer said, that "bidders might satisfy themselves whether the article they were offering to buy was sound or not." The whole thing was so revolting that Lincoln moved away from the scene with a deep feeling of "unconquerable hate." Bidding his companions follow him, he said, "Boys, let's get away from this. If I ever get a chance to hit that thing (meaning slavery) I'll hit it hard."

FORD ANTI-JEWISH ARTICLES FOR PEACE

paper would quote him correctly. His present interview might be summarized this way:

1—Ford is attacking the international Jewish bankers in order to promote world peace.

2—He denies that he is anti-semitic, claiming he employs 5,000 Jews and would have signed the anti-semitic protest had he been given opportunity.

His desire is to wake up "boob" gentiles and get them to display the same energy and earnestness as the Jews.

"Not through dislike of the Jews, not because of anti-semitism but because I want the Jews to co-operate with the gentiles to bring about world peace, our paper has been used to expose Jewish propaganda."

Thus does Mr. Ford explain the Dearborn Independent articles.

"We are not anti-semitic. Had the protest against anti-semitism, which was signed by President Wilson, Cardinal O'Connell and others been presented to me I would have signed it."

"The best proof of our feeling towards the Jews is the fact that we employ 5,000 Jewish workers."

"It is my desire to bring about world peace. There can be no world peace until the international Jewish bankers cease providing money for war."

"It is our purpose through the articles to wake up the gentiles and get them on to their job. We do not blame the Jew for his earnestness and alertness but we do blame the gentle boob for not waking up and being just as earnest and alert."

"These articles are not and have not been anti-semitic in purpose or viewpoint. They simply state facts. In gathering material for them we came across a mountain of facts concealed in silence."

"There was more or less whispering about it all, but no one seemed to have the courage to come out into the open. A whispering campaign always breeds a bad temper."

"In situations of that kind there are but two courses, to suppress the facts and let the whispering continue or to air the matter through frank open discussion. The latter is the only cure."

"The same opportunity was open to every other newspaper in the United States. It is not to characterize our campaign of education as anti-semitic. We do not hate the Jews. If we did we would not have them here. But we do have them."

"To bring about world peace the gentiles must be awakened and the international Jewish bankers must be stopped from financing armament. In brief, world peace is intimately connected with the sort of thing we have been exposing."

APPLES, THE HEALTH FRUIT

Apples to appeal to the usual appetite must be delicious if they are to be eaten raw. They should be crisp, cold and full of juice and flavor. If they are not in this perfect state they are best cooked. Seasoning can be added to supply the deficiency in juiciness and flavor.

Salads of which apple is a component part are decided appetizing for luncheon, and even a rather tasteless apple, which we are only too likely to get at this time of the year, can be made appetizing with the vinegar, lemon juice and spices allowable in salads.

For the table, raw apples should be chosen with skins of attractive color. The skins can be rubbed with a damp cloth until they glow, and this is the only doctoring needed to make them very attractive.

You must yourself be the one to decide at what time of day raw apples, or any other raw fruit for that matter, are most welcomed by your system. Third is an old saying that fruit is golden at breakfast, silver at luncheon and lead at dinner. But this old saying does not hold good with everybody.

Some of us find fruit in a raw state quite unpalatable and even indigestible when eaten in the morning. The same fruit is decidedly beneficial eaten just before going to bed.

Apples as a vegetable are often more appetizing than apples as fruit. Fried apples are delicious with certain sorts of meat, and apple sauce is the proper accompaniment of other meat. For luncheon, too, apples can be served as a vegetable with very good results.

PUDDING SAUCES

Fruit Pudding Sauce—Pour two small, tart apples and grate the inside. Beat it with a cup of sugar and the white of an egg, for twenty-five minutes. This makes a delicious sauce for any hot pudding. Instead of the apple use crushed strawberries or raspberries or the pulp of ripe peaches.

Sultana Sauce—Wash and dry a quarter of a cup of sultana raisins and then remove the stems. Put them over the fire with a cup of boiling water and simmer for thirty minutes, slowly, adding more water if it is necessary. At the end of that time the raisins should be quite soft. Then add half a cup of sugar and boil to a syrup. Add a little lemon juice and more sugar if necessary.

For Plum Pudding—Beat the yolks of three eggs and then add them to the stiff whites of two eggs. Mix them with a cup of rich milk and put them in a double boiler. Cook, stirring all the time, until it is thick and smooth. Remove immediately from the fire, add half a cup of sugar and any desired flavoring and serve.

Uncooked Egg Sauce—Beat the whites of three eggs stiff. Then add a tablespoon of sugar for each white and beat again thoroughly. Then beat the yolks and add them. Season with vanilla and serve immediately.

THE WOMAN HE MARRIED

DICK LEAVES IN SEARCH OF HEALTH

CHAPTER 89

The doctor came that evening and had a long talk with Dick. He was very encouraging, told him it would be only a short time before he picked up in a different climate, while it would take months where we were.

"You will go, won't you Dick?" I begged after the doctor left.

"I'd be glad to do anything to get well quickly for your sake, Nan, but we can't go west. We haven't the money."

"The money will be had some way," I replied, then said no more. Dick looked so tired, so white and wan I feared that even the doctor's call had hurt him.

But the next morning when he felt a little better and brighter I said:

"Dick, you must go to California the last of the week." It was then Tuesdays.

"But Nan, how—"

"Don't ask any questions, dear, I have enough for your fare, and for the first weeks of your stay coming in."

"My fare?"

"Yes."

"What about your's? I suppose you will leave Junior with mother if we do go."

"You must go without me, Dick. I will come on later. I have too much work promised to leave honorably." I had made up my mind this was the one plea that would have weight with him, and it was really true. The work had piled up while Dick had been sick, although my girls had been wonderful.

"You mean I am to go way out there alone?" amazement in his voice and face.

"For a time, yes. I'll come just as soon as I can."

"I can't do it, Nan. I'd die of loneliness."

"You must go, Dick." I think there was something in my face that startled him. Something I had not meant to show, but that proved my fears, for he said quietly:

"Very well, Nan, I'll go." Then,

"It seems dreadful to have you work for me."

I felt like saying that it was because of my wrong doing that things were as they were, but refrained. I

only asked:

"Wouldn't you work for me?"

"Of course!"

"There is no difference, Dick. And it will break my heart if you allow yourself to have any foolish notions about it. My business is established. I am a success in a small way in it. You know that, so need not think of me trying some new notion without assurance of its success. I shall come to you as soon as I can. But, dear, when I do, it will be to find you almost well and ready to come home. Even the doctor said you would be sure to put up a good fight for your health because of Junior and me."

"And because of you two I will!"

He declared with the first bit of animation he had shown since had told him he must go alone.

"I knew you would when you understood what it meant to us. Dick. It means more to me than even you can understand, perhaps. It is because of my love and because of my remorse. I don't know which is the stronger reason. I feel that I—

"Please dear."

"But, Dick, I can't help feeling as I do—that if I had been the right sort of a wife you never would have been here, never been ill."

"Nan, I was just as weak, just as wicked. Let us make a bargain. Never to speak of it again. We are happy, the past is over and done with. Perhaps, dear, I am a better man, you a better woman because of it. Even if not we cannot change it."

"I know, dear. And I realize that.
